The most sensational balloon ascension ever given in Utah, undoubtedly in the west, and which can truly be called a "blood curdling leap into the lake," was given at the Provo Lake resort last evening. It was between 9 and 10 p. m. that Professor Harris inflated his large new balloon, and people stood about him with their hearts in their mouths, because of there being a strong wind blowing from the direction of Spanish Fork canyon out on to the lake. When let loose the balloon went with a swoop over the water and the crowd began to grow more excited for fear the aeronaut was doomed to a watery grave. Boats were sent out and the first to find Harris was Billy Wilson. Harris was up to his neck in the water and was laboring under the difficulty of having shoes and clothing on. The balloon went on over the lake and soon became lost to view. Searching parties were sent out but at the present writing no balloon has been found. It is to be hoped that Harris will not sustain the misfortune of the loss of his balloon as it cost something over $100. When the aeronaut was brought to shore he was covered with mud and looked a trifle the worse for wear although he was in very good spirits. The evening was spent in dancing by the very large crowd who was out at the resort and the merry pleasure seekers found their way homeward about midnight.

FELL FORTY FEET IN HIS SLEEP.

A Man's Somanbulism Attributed to the Excitement of Getting Work.

James Reilly of 608 First avenue, a painter, 45 years old, was badly hurt yesterday morning by walking off the roof of the tenement in a fit of som-nambulism, brought on, it is supposed, by the excitement of obtaining work after long idleness. About three months ago he lost his job, and three weeks later his wife died. Since then he has had a hard time taking care of three boys and a 10-year-old girl. Last Thursday he found a job.

He was to begin work early yesterday. He went to bed about 9:30 o'clock on Thursday night after putting his brushes and overalls in a pile beside him. He was afraid he might not wake in time and so might lose the job, and he told his children that the first one awake was to call him. A little after midnight his son Jimmie, who was restless, went to his father's room.

Reilly was still awake, and when his son left him he said:
"Don't forget to call me, my boy."

Two hours later Reilly was found lying in his nightshirt on the roof of a stable 40 feet below the roof of the tenement. On the roof of the tenement were found Reilly's overalls and paintbrushes. It is believed that Reilly, being nervous and agitated, walked upon the roof in his sleep, dreaming he was about to go to work. He was taken to Bellevue hospital. His skull is fractured. None of his children remembers his having walked in his sleep before.

New York Exchange.

THE city council met in special session last night and passed a substitute ordinance fixing the boundaries of the five municipal wards.

It will be remembered that on April 16th of this year an ordinance was passed which ordinance repaled the ordinance defining municipal boundaries then in force and reduced the limits of the various wards so that certain property outside of municipal boundaries should not fall within the area of city property assessed for city taxes to comply with the decision of the district court in the York and other cases.

Later another decision made a further limitation of the extent of the city seen necessary and a substitute ordinance was drafted which passed two readings.

The intent of the council was all right, but they did not realize that they had been doing something they had no authority to do until their attention was called to the matter by the question arising and being asked whether or no the voters residing in the detached portions had a right to vote at municipal elections, being as the restriction was made for purposes of taxation. The matter was referred to the judiciary committee. An investigation resulted in ascertaining that the legislature fixed the outside limits of the city giving the council the privilege of fixing the lines of the wards within the city, but giving it no right to alter the outside boundaries. This can be done, that is a portion of the city can be detached by a petition from three-fourths of the residents in the portion proposed to be detached and a vote being taken on the matter by the whole people.

The council had run across a snag; they were obliged to undo what they had done, and the pending ordinance was killed, the substitute ordinance repealed and old ordinance re-enacted with the following section added:

"All that ordinance entitled 'An Ordinance for Chapter 34 of the Revised Ordinances of Provo City' passed the 16th day of April A. D. 1894 is hereby repealed, and the above bill shall be in force in lieu thereof from and after the approval thereof by the mayor of Provo city. Said repeal shall not affect any act done or any suit or proceeding here commenced prior to the date thereof, but all such rights and liabilities under such ordinance shall continue and be prosecuted to a final termination, in the same manner as if said repeal had not been made."

FURTHER BUSINESS.

Councilor Ward called attention to the sections of ordinances prohibiting the hanging or maintaining of fence gates which swing out over the side walk, except self-closing gates in good repair, and commanding that shade trees on the side walks be trimmed so that the lowest branches shall be at least eight feet from the ground, and that the side-walks shall be kept clean from weeds, rubbish etc., and moved that the marshal be instructed to enforce these provisions rigidly. The motion was carried.

Fought for Life

Long Siege of Dangerous Illness

Left in Low Condition—Given Health and Strength by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen:—I have been through a terrible siege of illness, and owe my present health to Hood's Sarsaparilla. First, I was taken sick with measles, and on the eighth day the doctor said I had bronchitis following that complaint.
In a short time lung fever developed, and I was in a serious condition for quite a while. When I began to get a little better, my friends thought that if I ever got up I would have Consumption.

I had such a terrible cough and threw off twice my weight. I continued in a very weak and low condition; my weight falling from 115, before I was taken sick, to 88 pounds. Then in January, 1893, I had an attack of the grip, and was confined to my room ten weeks. After this attack I was still very weak and did not gain health at all until I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I had no appetite for anything, and was sick at my stomach continually and had a bad taste in my mouth. Some friends who were taking Hood's Sarsaparilla begged me to try it. My parents had despaired of anything doing me good, but began to give me the medicine, and before I had taken one bottle there was such a change for the better that they were glad to have me continue. The second bottle did for me what no medicine had ever done. It gave me strength and brought my general health up to where it was two weeks before I was taken with the measles. I have now finished my third bottle, and feel strong and well. I shall always thank to Hood's Sasparilla." E. IRENE HARRIS, Irving, Oregon.
